Introduction

A home-school agreement is a statement explaining:

- the school's aims and values;
- the school's responsibilities towards its students who are of compulsory school age;
- the responsibility of each student's parents/carer ; and
- what the school expects of its students.

In line with sections 110 and 111 of the School Standards and Framework Act 1998 the governing bodies of all academies must publish a home-school agreement and associated parental declaration. The model agreement adopted by the Trust is attached at Appendix 1.

Requirements

The governing body must take reasonable steps to ensure that all registered parents/carers of students of compulsory school age sign the parental declaration to indicate that they understand and accept the contents of the agreement. Schools are not required to seek the signature of a parent/carer where they consider that there are special circumstances relating to the parent/carer or student in question that would make it inappropriate to do so.

Schools must not:

- invite a parent/carer or child to sign the parental declaration before the child has been admitted to the school;
- make the signing of the parental declaration a condition of the child's admission to the school; or
- base a decision about admitting a child to the school on assumptions about whether his or her parents/carers are or are not likely to sign the parental declaration.

A home-school agreement must not include any terms or conditions which would be unlawful or unreasonable, such as requiring parents/cares to make a financial contribution to the school, or refusing to waive any requirement on school uniform in cases where the parent/carer and child cannot comply for religious reasons. Breaches of the terms of the agreement will not be actionable through the courts. Furthermore, a child must not be excluded from school, or face punishment, as a result of a parent's failure to sign the agreement or abide by their declaration. Parents/carers should not face any sanction for either not signing the home-school agreement or failing to abide by its requirements. Schools may also invite any student, who they consider to have a sufficient understanding of the home-school agreement as it relates to them, to sign the agreement as an indication that they acknowledge and accept the school's expectations of its students. Schools should take reasonable steps to ensure that all 'parents' both within and outside the child's home, giving equal weight to both mothers and fathers, are given the opportunity to indicate that they understand and accept the contents of the home-school agreement, and review the content of the agreement regularly during the time their child is at school. Where parents/carers have separated it is important that, where possible, both mothers and fathers are given the opportunity to sign a copy of the agreement's parental declaration.
